During the 1950's, Parker Brothers formed an affiliation with the Miro Company in Paris for the manufacture and distribution of their games in France. In exchange, Parker Brothers agreed to manufacture and distribute some of Miro's games in the United States.

In the summer of 1957, a Mr. Boisseau of Miro approached Parker Brothers with La Conquête du Monde, a game invented by the French writer and movie producer Albert Lamorisse, best known for his award-winning film The Red Balloon.

After extensive testing, the French game's rules were adapted for American tastes, and, in 1959, Parker Brothers launched the RISK Continental Game. In the introduction to the first set of rules, a Parker Brothers gamer wrote:

"You are about to play the most unusual game that has appeared in many years. It is not difficult, but because it is so different, you will find it worthwhile to read the rules completely through before starting play. No attempt has been made to teach strategy, as each player will develop his own as he becomes familiar with the game."

Forty years and millions of players later, RISK is still a Parker Brothers classic. Many consider it the classic military strategy game.

In 1993 the rules for the European game variation Secret Mission Risk were added to the game, and you will find them in this book. And while Napoleonic Europe can never change, our perception of world affairs has. Since 1996 the game has been called RISK: The Game of Global Domination.

Whether you want to conquer the world or dominate the globe, we hope you enjoy playing this classic game in this spectacular 40th Anniversary Edition!
